

Daily Pick Em Proposal

In an effort to bring people to the site on a Daily Basis, we would like to put a "Daily Pick 'Em" game on the site, where once a day, our User's will go onto the site to see a Past Wrestling PPV (Show) Card, and have to correctly pick the outcomes of the matches on that particular show within a specific time frame (to eliminate cheating).

How this would work.....

When the User is ready to play, he will click a button that he's ready to play. Once the button is clicked, in 5 second intervals, a "Daily Pick 'Em" Title page will so up; then the Show Name, Company, Date, Venue, etc shows up; then match by match the User will pick who they thought won the match (again, all 5 second intervals), then at the, they will have a Game Summery where they see their stats (how many right, how many wrong, total score for the week, etc). The Game Summery will not be involved in the 5 second interval. There will be a button or something where they can click on something once they're ready to go back to their My PWP page.

What I need to make this work is.....

- I want to keep this as separate as I can from the Original Game, meaning the format in creating these Shows and Matches with the Wrestlers.
- I need an area where I (as admin) can create a completely different Wrestler Database, that will not be in public view.
- I need to be able to set up the Shows being played ahead of time (Won't have the time to input a new show every day), and then a new show will automatically be put on the site at Midnight every night, replacing the show from the prior day.
- We'll have think of the stats that we think the User's would want that will eventually be compiled by doing these Daily Pick Ems. Weekly Points, All Time Points, Weekly Wins, etc. We don't have to go too into detail at this moment, but I feel like compiling the numbers for them is the way to go for now to keep them interested until theres a way to award prizes.